IMPROVING HEALTH PROJECT

Aim

Tackle health inequality and inequity by improving the health of Black and Minority Ethnic (BME) communities living in Enfield.

How this aim is being met?

1. Improved awareness amongst targeted BME communities of living healthy lifestyles, particularly healthy eating, physical activity and smoking cessation.
2. Increasing take up of local services to improve health by targeted BME communities.
3. Development of inclusive local health programmes and services that address key BME health concerns.
4. Development of local community groups to better deliver health outcomes for their communities, aligned to local priorities and based on local health need.
5. Increased involvement of BME communities/users with local health forums.

What the project is doing?

Policy Work

- Key health priorities and concerns, and gaps in health services for local BME groups identified.
- Working with local health policymakers to ensure that health plans address the needs of BME groups in Enfield, including a review of the local health Race Equality Schemes.

What is Enfield Racial Equality Council (EREC) and what do we do?

EREC is an umbrella organisation and the only one in Enfield solely concerned with racial discrimination and equality of opportunity in every aspect of your life. EREC is concerned, however, about anyone who may have experienced racial discrimination, whatever their background: white people, Irish people, travellers and other national groups are covered equally by the Race Relations Act 1976.

Despite more enlightened times and constant publicity, incidents of racial harassment and abuse continue to occur, even in Enfield. Racism can breed quickly, especially in areas of economic deprivation. It can occur at all levels in society – from the classroom to the workplace, from graffiti on the walls to actual violence in the streets (and on the football terraces). Instances of name calling can develop into arson and campaigns of orchestrated violence.

Inequality and racial discrimination can take many forms - from the landlord who does not let to 'coloureds', to those who are well qualified but passed over for promotion. EREC is willing to support all victims of racism and violence and to campaign for an end to injustice, fear and prejudice.

Some of EREC's activities cover employment, housing, health and social services, public affairs, education, racial harassment and violent attacks, injustice and racial abuse. We work with the local authority, local voluntary and statutory groups to ensure their policies and services provide for and are sensitive to the needs of all the community. From time to time, EREC undertakes project work on issues of concern where needs and gaps have been identified.

EREC is a registered charity run by its members through a Board of Trustees and is funded by the London Borough of Enfield and grants obtained through other funders such as the Big Lottery.

Strategic Race and Equalities Forum

The Strategic Race and Equalities Forum was established in September 2006 (previously known as the Strategic Race Forum) in response to concerns of BME organisations that their issues were not being addressed at strategic level.

Serviced by EREC, the forum meets regularly to discuss a wide range of topics. It has proved popular with both the voluntary and statutory sectors in recognition that it is important to keep race issues on the agenda. Achievements include, meetings attended by at least 30 people and the importance of the forum as a consultative mechanism acknowledged by Enfield Council.

The forum holds meetings directly linking both national researches on race issues to local policy development. The aim being to ensure that local communities are able to have an informed voice on the issues they want EREC to take forward on their behalf or take up directly with policymakers. Open to organisations and individuals living or working in Enfield, membership is particularly welcome from BME organisations and representatives.

Would you like to become a member of EREC?

If you support the work of EREC, we would welcome you to join us as a member. Membership is FREE and is open to individuals who live or work in Enfield and to organisations operating in Enfield, who are committed to furthering the work of the REC.

Our membership includes the Local Borough Council, MPs, Police, religious groups, political parties, community groups, schools/colleges, BME groups and organisations and individuals dedicated to working against racism.
